Subject: Application for Long Stay (D) Study Visa

Dear Visa Officer, my name is Shawon Prodhon, and I am writing to respectfully apply for a Long Stay (D) Study Visa to pursue the Master of Science in Digital Marketing at the University of Galway, starting in September 2025.

I come from a solid academic background in business studies, having completed my Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA) with a concentration in Marketing from American International University Bangladesh (AIUB) in 2024. I previously completed my HSC in 2019 and SSC in 2017, both in the business stream. Throughout my academic journey, I have developed a strong interest in digital media, consumer behavior, and brand communication, areas that have inspired me to advance my studies in digital marketing at a global level.

I have chosen Ireland as my study destination because it offers the perfect blend of academic excellence, real-world relevance, and cultural openness. Over the past decade, Ireland has emerged as a global hub for digital innovation and marketing, attracting leading tech companies, creative agencies, and digital start-ups from around the world. For someone like me, who is passionate about digital marketing and eager to gain an international perspective, this creates a truly inspiring learning environment. What also appeals to me is Ireland's student-friendly culture. As an English-speaking country within the European Union, Ireland provides access to a high-quality education system while also making it easier for international students to adapt, communicate, and integrate. The multicultural nature of Irish campuses fosters open-mindedness and collaboration, which I believe are essential for succeeding in today's global business landscape. Unlike many traditional education systems, Irish universities are known for their focus on practical learning, critical thinking, and strong industry connections. This balance between theory and hands-on experience is especially important in digital marketing, a field that evolves rapidly and demands both creative agility and technical skill. Studying in Ireland will not only allow me to build a globally recognized academic foundation, but also expose me to the dynamic digital economy of Europe, preparing me to contribute meaningfully to Bangladesh's own marketing and media industries in the future.

I specifically chose the University of Galway because of its strong reputation for academic excellence, research-led teaching, and industry-oriented programs, particularly the MSc in Digital Marketing, which stands out for its depth, structure, and relevance to the evolving global marketplace. What drew me to this program is how thoughtfully it combines core marketing theory with modern digital tools, consumer behavior analysis, and practical project-based learning. In a world where digital platforms, data analytics, and customer-centric strategies are driving business success, I was looking for a course that could offer more than just textbook knowledge, and the University of Galway delivers exactly that. The program's close links with the digital marketing industry, along with its internship opportunities, ensure that students graduate with not just academic knowledge, but the real-world experience and confidence to thrive in competitive international roles. I'm especially drawn to the collaborative learning environment and the university's commitment to producing graduates who are creative, adaptable, and globally minded qualities that I hope to embody as I build my own career in the digital marketing field.

In preparation for this transition, I completed multiple certifications in social media marketing and digital marketing fundamentals and gained valuable work experience through a 3-month internship at Union Bank PLC in early 2024. These experiences not only enhanced my technical and communication skills but also confirmed my desire to specialize in digital marketing as a long-term career.

I plan to arrive in Ireland by 01st September 2025, ahead of the program commencement on September 8th, to ensure I am settled in time for orientation and registration. I would also like to confirm that my tuition and living expenses for the first year have been fully arranged and are supported through fixed deposit savings in my father's name, Abdul Karim Prodhon. He is a business owner and has a stable annual income of approximately €26,500. My parents are fully committed to financially supporting my entire study duration in Ireland, and we have submitted the necessary financial documentation accordingly.

I affirm that I have no family members residing in Ireland or the EU. My sole purpose for traveling is to pursue full-time studies, and I fully intend to return to Bangladesh after completing my degree to contribute to the growing digital economy through agency work, strategic marketing roles, or potentially launching my own digital consultancy.

I fully understand and agree to comply with the conditions of my visa, including:

- I will abide by all Irish immigration and visa regulations during my stay.
- I will not avail any public services or become a financial burden on the Irish State.
- I will leave Ireland before my immigration permission expires, unless lawfully permitted to stay further.

Thank you for considering my application. I respectfully request your kind approval to take this important next step in my academic and professional journey.

Yours sincerely,

Shawon Prodhan
